Esse é o primeiro passo para alcançar.

This story takes place in a realm far, far away, in a wonderful place called Dreamland. This place was very beautiful, and it had many trees and also big mountains. The inhabitants of that kingdom were very happy, but something very strange happened, King Mawi disappeared, and the whole kingdom was very sad about what happened. Even with this unexpected news, the people of the dreamland still believed in better days for the kingdom.

Good morning princess Giuliana, let's get up! It is a beautiful day! Joana said excitedly. You're right, it really is a beautiful day..., but what's the use of a beautiful day, if I have to be locked up here in this dungeon like a castle, come on, nothing to do, no one to talk to, how boring! Even more so now that my dad disappeared, my mom is scared that something bad might happen to us and I can't go anywhere. After the king's death, Princess Giuliana's mother was too afraid to let her go out alone, fearing that some enemy kingdom was up to no good, since she was the successor to the royal throne.

In the training camp Ariella, a member of the royal guard, talked to the other soldiers who mocked her: Since I was a little girl, I always knew that I wanted to be captain of the royal guard, and I don't lower myself to anyone who says that women cannot participate in the kingdom's army. I will be the best captain of the Guard that ever lived to fight for the kingdom and ensure everyone's safety! This distant kingdom, full of unexpected encounters, still holds many surprises, and it's not that this world, or rather this kingdom, is small, too small for those who have dreams like the stars of the heavens.

Meanwhile, in the village that was close to the palace, Aislan, a young baker, wondered: People, what is the problem with wanting to be different? I really do not know. Could it be that I can no longer have dreams or have my opinion? You must be thinking I'm crazy, right? My family too, they want me to be a baker, just because everyone in our family is. But my dream has always been to be a writer, to be able to have my books all over the kingdom, that would be great. This is the life of Aislan, a dreamy boy who, despite not having the support of his family and friends, wanted to fight for what he believed: That all people could be whatever they wanted, without worrying about the opinion of others.

And you, have you ever fought for something that people said was impossible to happen, how was that experience?

Meanwhile in the castle, the desperate queen calls Giuliana and says: Daughter, tonight you will have to leave the castle. Leave the castle? Yes my daughter, with a broken heart I ask you said the queen very sadly. But mom what happened? asked the princess. Ariella unwittingly discovered a plan by the Captain of the Guard to seize power, and I think her father's disappearance has to do with that plan. Daughter, you need to leave the castle immediately, Ariela is already making sure you leave safely, pack your suitcase now! Giuliana Very saddened by the news, she went to her room to pack her things, while Ariella thought of a way to leave the castle without being seen.

Ariella was very friendly with Aislan, so she asked him to hide the princess in his bakery until he found a way to unmask the captain of the guard. Ariella was very afraid, because she knew that the princess's life was at risk, but as a warrior and friend of Giuliana, she made a difficult decision, that of facing the captain of the guard, even if for that she had to give up her greatest desire. .

And you, have you ever decided to face a fear or give up something you really wanted?

When finding Ariella, the captain of the guard says:
Ariella, you are very strange, I need to talk to you. No, I'm normal, it's an impression from the Lord. Answers Ariella trying to disguise her nervousness. Did you hear about the princess's disappearance? Yes, I heard, that's all they talk about in the whole kingdom. I will immediately order you to lead a search throughout the kingdom, and if the princess is not found in two days, I will assume the throne of the land of dreams, and if you stay by my side, I will make you captain of the royal guard, even though I do not agree with that very much. that. He really is a captain, but why? Don't you think I'm capable? she asked angrily. You know, Ariella. Speak captain, because I really don't know. Because you are a woman!

At that moment, Ariella had to make a very difficult and risky decision, to go against the captain, since he was a very bad and prejudiced man. Captain, you know I've always dreamed of being a captain, and you know that I would never accept such a thing, even if it was to be queen of dreamland. Ariella you are woman! Do you really think you'll get another chance? I might not get another chance, but I will never be a traitor like you! Captain why did you betray the king, so he who always helped you, was your friend and you want to take his throne? And even worse, you want me to go along with your plan, I will fight to the end to become captain, but I will never, ever side with you.

Meanwhile in the village, where the most humble people lived, the soldiers were looking for the princess everywhere, so they entered Aislan's bakery, where Giuliana was hiding. When they noticed the presence of the guards they fled through the back door, and ran towards the forest.
