

No canto da sala não existe ninguém

The lower half of the page is mostly blank white space. There is a faint, illegible watermark or ghosting of text visible in the center, which appears to be a bleed-through from the reverse side of the paper. The text is too light and blurry to be transcribed accurately.

The bottom half of the page is mostly blank white space, with a small white triangular shape in the bottom right corner, possibly representing a page fold or a scanning artifact.

Bom dia

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased in the UK (Mental Health Act 1983).

There is a growing awareness of the need to improve the lives of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1999) has set out a strategy for mental health care in the UK. The strategy is based on the following principles:

- People with mental health problems should be treated as individuals and not as a group.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in their own homes and communities.

The strategy also sets out a number of objectives for the future, including:

- To reduce the number of people with mental health problems who are admitted to hospital.
- To improve the quality of care for people with mental health problems.
- To improve the support available to people with mental health problems.

The strategy is a landmark document in the history of mental health care in the UK. It sets out a clear vision for the future and provides a framework for action.

The strategy is based on the following principles:

- People with mental health problems should be treated as individuals and not as a group.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in their own homes and communities.

The strategy also sets out a number of objectives for the future, including:

- To reduce the number of people with mental health problems who are admitted to hospital.
- To improve the quality of care for people with mental health problems.
- To improve the support available to people with mental health problems.

The strategy is a landmark document in the history of mental health care in the UK. It sets out a clear vision for the future and provides a framework for action.

The strategy is based on the following principles:

- People with mental health problems should be treated as individuals and not as a group.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to participate in decisions about their care.
- People with mental health problems should be given the opportunity to live in their own homes and communities.

—

