

the hero without a cape

On a beautiful day, the Brazilian Football Confederation (CBF) comes up with the idea of leaving the planet to play against other planets. With Elon Musk's rocket, they achieve this incredible feat and recruit only the best from planet Earth. Among them are Neymar, Vinicius Jr, De Bruyne, Haaland, and several other top players. During training for the much-anticipated competition, Vinicius Junior and Neymar have a conversation. Neymar asks Vinicius Junior, "Hey man, how do you feel about all this happening on our planet?" Vinicius Junior responds, "I'm a bit anxious but I think everything will go well." After this brief conversation, they both return to training, unaware that if planet Earth loses the competition, it will be destroyed. Several days pass until it's the last week of training and preparation for the competition. Neymar walks calmly to the training center where practice will take place when he sees two aliens talking. He stops to spy and listen to their conversation to find out what it's all about.

Neymar listened attentively and was very surprised to discover the aliens' plan. He decided not to tell anyone about their plan because he knew that if he did and the others from planet Earth were to complain, the planet would be completely destroyed. So he let it pass until the day of the game. Very determined to save humanity and all of Earth, Neymar trained hard before the game and went into the match 100% better than before. After 30 minutes of warm-up and pre-selection, the referee blew the start of the game and possibly the end of Earth. Until the second half, the game was in favor of the alien team by 1-0, but in the last ten minutes, Neymar decided not to let the end of Earth come so soon because he knew that this mission was his alone and no one else's. So he asked for the ball from De Bruyne, dribbled past everyone to the opponent's goal, and shot, thus tying the game and managing to hold on until the end of the 90 minutes, heading into penalty kicks. The atmosphere was totally tense, and Neymar only watched the penalty kicks as he would be the last one to take them. Everyone had missed their penalties, both from the Earth team and the Everyone had missed, and only one person was left alien team.

to take the penalty kick, that person was Neymar.

Neymar knew that if he missed, it would be the end of everything. So he took the ball, looked at the alien goalkeeper, and as the referee blew the whistle, Neymar approached the ball. He took a little pause and then continued, when he hit the ball, he shifted his body to one side and turned his foot to the other, confusing the goalkeeper and scoring the goal, thus saving the entire Earth.

Everyone rushed to hug Neymar, and Neymar thanked God, resolving the game. Neymar became
"The hero without a cape."
